Manual of Policies and Procedures

POLICY NO.: I:05:04

DATE: January 2020

REVIEW/REVISION DATES:

SUBJECT: Code of Conduct and Ethics

APPROVED: Don C. Killingsworth, Jr., Acting President

PURPOSE

Jacksonville State University (JSU) is committed to conducting its affairs in ways that promote mutual trust and public confidence. All employees are responsible for sustaining the highest ethical standards of excellence, integrity, honesty, and fairness and for integrating these values into teaching, research, business practices, and other services. Ethical conduct is a fundamental expectation for every employee. Employees must exercise good judgment and wise discretion to conduct all activities ethically and in compliance with applicable law; protect JSU from risks; and assist in the preservation and enhancement of the assets and reputation of JSU for the education and betterment of current and future generations. This Code of Conduct and Ethics (Code) has been established to work in conjunction with relevant laws, regulations, and JSU policies, providing the general guidelines for how an employee conducts his/her affairs.

POLICY

1. Report illegal or unethical behavior.

The Code illustrates the shared accountability each employee has in conducting JSU business with honesty and integrity. The Code is intended to assist in making ethical and legal choices.

If there are questions or situations that are not specifically addressed by the Code, an employee should bring them to the attention of his/her supervisor.

If an employee becomes aware of a situation in which he/she believes that the Code has been violated or that he/she is being pressured or being asked to compromise JSU's Code and values, it is the employee's responsibility to communicate this concern through the appropriate channels, as described below. An employee will not be disciplined, lose his/her job, or be subject to retaliation in response to asking questions or voicing concerns about JSU's ethical or legal obligations, so long as the employee is acting in good faith. Good faith does not necessarily mean being correct, but it does imply that the employee subjectively believes the information communicated is correct.

Your Role:

Report any Code violations, wrongdoing, unsafe condition, or suspicious activity in person or anonymously.

Listed below are the ways by which an employee can ask questions or voice concerns.

1. In person--An employee's supervisor is the most immediate resource. He/she may have the information needed or may be able to refer the question to another appropriate source. The Chief Internal Auditor may also be contacted in person as an alternative.
2. Via email--JSU has an email account whistleblower@jsu.edu where an employee can send a message with a question or concern.
3. Via phone--The Whistleblower Hotline (1-256-782-TALK or 8255) is a number where callers can remain anonymous, if they desire.
4. Via mail--Confidential mail can be sent to:
JSU
244 Daugette Hall
700 Pelham Road North
Jacksonville AL 36565
Attn: Chief Internal Auditor
5. Via campus mail--Confidential mail can be sent to:
JSU
244 Daugette Hall
Attn: Chief Internal Auditor

In all cases, when a question or concern is raised, all reports will be:

- Handled promptly, discreetly, and professionally. In the event discussions and inquiries occur; confidentiality will be kept to the extent appropriate or permitted by law;
- Investigated by those with appropriate independence and objectivity; and
- Kept securely and confidentially on file so that the reporting person can obtain certain follow-up information about how JSU addressed the report or concern.

When an investigation is initiated, employees are expected to cooperate fully and answer any questions truthfully and to the best of their ability. Failure to cooperate or concealing or covering up an ethical or legal violation is a major violation of the Code. If an employee fails to cooperate or engages in concealing or covering up violations in the absence of significant, serious, mitigating circumstances, the employee will be subject to sanctions as described in section 10 of this policy.

2. Provide quality education and research.

A conflict of interest occurs when an individual's personal interests interfere, or appear to interfere, in any way with the interests of JSU. Employees of JSU must avoid situations that present potential or actual conflicts between individual interests and the interests of JSU.

The following are examples of actions that would constitute a conflict of interest:

- Investing in, or serving as a director of, any company that sells products or services to JSU, or any company doing or seeking to do business with JSU, other than relatively small investments in securities of publicly held companies;
- Borrowing money from companies doing or seeking to do business with JSU, other than on generally available terms;
- Accepting bribes or kickbacks of any kind;
- Hiring or supervising a relative (as defined in policy 1.02.23);
- Having a personal relationship with another employee or vendor that affects an employee's ability to do his/her job or that disrupts the workplace;
- Accepting gifts, gratuities, benefits, awards, and prizes from external entities not in compliance with federal and state laws and JSU policies and standards;
- Placing JSU business with relatives or friends, or working on a JSU project that will have a direct impact on the financial interest of relatives or friends; and
- Encouraging companies dealing with JSU to buy supplies or services from relatives or friends.

Your Role:

When executing your role as a JSU employee, do not engage in any activity that could be perceived as putting your own interests ahead of JSU's interest.

If an employee encounters a situation in which he/she is unsure whether an action represents a conflict of interest, he/she should discuss it with a supervisor, the Chief Internal Auditor, the University Counsel, or a member of the President's Cabinet.

4. Respect and maintain the confidentiality of information entrusted to you by JSU.

Employees are required to treat JSU proprietary information with respect. Information generated is an asset. Protecting this information plays a vital role in JSU's continued growth and ability to compete. Employees who have access to proprietary and confidential information are obligated to appropriately safeguard it from unauthorized access and follow these additional guidelines:

- Share this information only with other JSU employees as appropriate for them to do their job;
- Do not disclose this information to persons who do not work at JSU. Exercise caution when discussing JSU business in public places where conversations can be overheard, like restaurants or on airplanes. Recognize the potential for eavesdropping on cellular telephones; and

Your Role:

All confidential information should be kept appropriately secure. Consult your supervisor or the University Counsel if you have any questions.

Consult the Chief Internal Auditor prior to disposing of documents.

JSU employees have a shared responsibility to promote a safe, secure, and healthy environment for all JSU students, faculty, staff, volunteers, and visitors (JSU community). The JSU community is expected to:

6. Report all financial information accurately.

Many employees are involved with financial transactions of some kind – such as preparing time sheets, expense reports, approving invoices, signing for receipt of purchased materials, preparing a purchase order, or requesting a quote. While not all employees need to be familiar with accounting procedures, everyone does need to make sure that all business records are accurate, complete, and reliable.

In short, employees need to ensure that records they generate, or otherwise touch, are truthful and accurate. False, misleading or incomplete information impairs JSU's ability to make good decisions, undermines trust and in some cases may be illegal.

In addition, no employee shall directly or indirectly take any action to fraudulently influence, coerce, manipulate, or mislead an accountant engaged in the performance of an audit or review of the financial statements.

As a public university, JSU must place critical importance on the accuracy of its financial reports. Depending on his/her position with JSU, an employee may be called upon to provide information to assure that JSU's public reports are complete, fair and understandable. JSU expects all employees to take this responsibility very seriously and to provide prompt and accurate answers to inquiries related to JSU's financial reports.

Your Role:

Ensure all transactions and records are accurate and filed on a timely basis.

Every employee is a steward of JSU assets. Protecting JSU assets against loss, theft, and misuse is everyone's responsibility. Inventory, equipment, samples, tools, and supplies have been acquired solely for JSU use. They may not be used for personal benefit, sold, loaned, given away, or disposed of without proper authorization. Employees should not have any expectation of privacy when using JSU assets such as the Internet, email, and the telephone.

Your Role:

Protect JSU assets, which have been entrusted to you.

Use JSU 's assets for legitimate purposes.
