Proof of Ownership

For a Used Boat or Utility Trailer (1,999 pounds or less), you must submit one of the following:

- Bill of Sale – Must contain the vehicle identification number (VIN) and other trailer details, and must be signed by the seller(s) and list the purchaser(s).
- Prior Owner's Registration and a Bill of Sale - Must be signed by the seller(s) and list the purchaser(s). If both items are presented, Bill of Sale does not need to contain the VIN as long as it is signed by the current registered owner. On newer Florida registrations, the Bill of Sale is located in the lower right hand corner.
- Dealer Invoice – If purchased from a Florida Dealer.
- Out-of-State Title, Registration, or Manufacturer Statement of Origin (MSO) – must show complete “chain of ownership”.

For a New Manufactured Boat or Utility Trailer (1,999 pounds or less):

- Original MSO – Must show a “complete chain” of ownership from dealer to dealer until assigned to you.

For Homemade Trailers Never Registered – No Vehicle Identification Number (VIN) (1,999 pounds or less):

- Bill of Sale with perjury clause or notary (only if purchased from the builder).

  Note: If you are the builder of the trailer, all you need is a weight slip (see below).

Proof of Empty Weight

Submit one of the following:

- Weight Slip (see list of weigh stations below)
- Weight indicated on dealer paperwork
- Weight indicated on the Out-of-State title, registration or MSO
- If previously registered in Florida, the weight listed in our system will suffice

Frequently Asked Questions

Can someone sell a non-titled trailer (weighing 1,999 pounds or less) without registering it in their name first?

Yes. Unlike titled vehicles, the owner of a non-titled trailer does not have to register it in their name before selling it. However, they must be able to prove to the purchaser (and our office) that they are the owner by way of a “complete chain” of ownership. The purchaser must submit to our office all ownership documents that make up the “complete chain” of ownership, including the bills of sale from each purchaser(s) to the new, current purchaser(s).

What is required if I purchased a trailer weighing 2,000 pounds or more?

Trailers weighing 2,000 pounds or more are required to be titled and registered, and additional documentation is required. For information, read our Florida Title Transfer publication or Out-of-State Title Transfer publication.

Note: If the trailer is homemade (weighing 2,000 pounds or more) and has never been titled or registered, the DMV Regional Office located in Palmetto must inspect the trailer and assign an FLT number before a Florida title and registration may be issued.
